in 1972

The halls of CHS are filled with the spirit of students: laughing, shouting, whispering, dreaming people—fellow Athenians. They are individuals with problems and ideas, complaints and praises.

What is on the Athenian mind? Only the Athenian himself can give the answer. Questions were asked; answers were given. In these answers, perhaps, the Athenian mind can be glimpsed.

"What's all this for?"

"The Yearbook?"

"Are you kidding?"

"Mr. Barton has been very nice to me . . ."

"You can wear what you want to here. I'd never been to a school where you could wear what you want or do what you want, grow a beard. I like it here, I really do."

School Is

Foundation in Building of Friendships

Where do you see the Athenian? You'll find him in a group, at school, at work, at play. He'll be cheering with his friends at a ball game, celebrating a victory or discussing a loss at the end. He wouldn't want it any other way.

"When you're alone you feel like an outsider. You feel like you don't belong. With your friends you're alive!"

"It's more fun when you're with others. There's so much more to do."

"You have someone to talk with."

"You can act crazy when you're in a group and it's okay. When I'm by myself I feel homely—dumb."

"I feel the same by myself or in a group. But when I am with my friends, I belong."

Remodeled Auditorium Boosts Student

Open study halls and hour lunch shifts were two of the changes that the students enjoyed at CHS this year. The improved auditorium and gymnasium boosted the Athenian's pride, while new classes increased his educational opportunities.

"The gym used to look like just any gym. The way they've painted the floor makes it look, well . . . it's the Athenian gym."

"I think the auditorium looks better than any other place in town. It's really something to be proud of."

"What do I think of the hour long lunch shift? Well, I can eat more. I have time to relax or even study, if I need to."

"I like it!"

German and Swedish Cultures Come

to CHS

"I love to study people. I love to take pictures of people doing anything. I could sit for hours and watch people and not lose interest. This is one of the reasons I enjoy being here."

Suzanne Raehmel, foreign exchange student from Munich, Germany, loves people and lives up to her nickname, "Sunny."

Anders Hansson, of Goteborg, Sweden, was often seen this year with camera in hand

"I don't know. It's just when I've got the camera in my hand I can see everything. I've got a reason to look . . ."

Anders and Sunny joined in extra-curricular activities such as the class play, and were, though for a short time, true Athenians

Sunny and Anders pause for a moment to discuss building techniques for the float.

Homecoming

"This is it. We've gotta win."

December 7, 1941 may live forever in infamy in the minds of Americans, but the Athenian has his own day of infamy—October 1, 1971. Homecoming had a few high points—Brenda Bowman's crowning; the class of '72 placing first in float competition; and Noblesville's score, a whopping 34 to the Athenians' 0.

"I can't look. That's the second time they've scored this quarter."

"What's David Hubble riding that horse for?"

"Not another fumble!"

"It may be too late, but I'm not going to stop cheering. They're still trying. I'd—I'd feel guilty if I left. They're still our team."

"We tried."

Disappointed, Andy Cakins slowly heads for the showers following Homecoming game.

Above—Class of '73 draws a second place rating on float with the theme "Ride On To Victory."

I work here for the money. Who doesn't? I'm planning to use it to go to college. The money may be the main reason for working; but if I didn't enjoy meeting people and enjoy the type of work, I'd quit. At least that's what I keep telling myself."

The Athenian at work is a common sight. Many hold part time jobs to earn money to fulfill their dreams of a college education or new car. Others work for the satisfaction of doing a worthwhile job as a volunteer.

As a Candy Stripper, I'm doing something I think is important. I do the small jobs so the nurses can spend more time caring for the patients. I really feel I'm needed. I've found myself in this work.

Counselors and Assistants Aid Students

When the difficulties of high school life seemed too large to handle, the Athenian had some one to turn to. With patience and understanding Mr. Curtis Castellucio and Mrs. Dorothy Jacob helped students gain a proper perspective.

Each class had its own special problems. Sophomores had to learn the ins and outs of CHS. The challenging trio—the PSAT, SAT, and NMSQT—had many juniors on edge as they began preparing for the future. Seniors had to make college or job choices that would affect their futures. Through it all, students had a friend to turn to: their counselor.

Helping students find a particular magazine issue or book was library assistant, Rosalyn Tate.

Upper left—Mrs. Dorothy Jacob, counselor, was always ready with a pleasant smile and an open ear.
Upper right—Checking in students who had been absent was the seemingly never ending job of Mrs. Janice Stearns.

Lower—Some of the art projects are geared more toward boys' tastes. Dennis Hammons is painting a drawer with professional skill.

at CHS

CHS was greatly enriched by its art and music departments. Student art work displays in the library and front hall were an interesting break from the normal appearance. While the art department added visual interest, the band and chorus added to the students' enjoyment at many pep sessions and convocations. Football games wouldn't have been complete without the marching Athenians.

Solo and group competition by CHS musicians once again brought honor to the Athenians. Art students entered various contests on different levels.

Music students explored the theory and construction of musical compositions in a newly instituted music theory class. Students created their own melodies during the course. Mr. Clifford Taylor was the instructor during his first year at CHS.

Andy King oils his trombone slide in preparation for an hour of practice

Upper—Donna Ramos uses her imagination to create a picture from Chicklets
Lower—Gay Caster, the choir secretary, arranges music for future use

New Opportunities in English Classes

David Custer as Charlie Gordon records his interpretation of the main character in Daniel Keyes' book, Flowers for Algernon. Seniors found that role playing was extremely helpful in understanding the characters in the books that they were assigned to read for English classes.

Sophomore Tim Tate lends a helping hand to a fellow classmate who is having trouble with an exercise on the use of proper grammar.

Mrs. Cantrell explains the goals which she hopes to attain in her senior English classes to an interested parent at open house.

In the library, Mrs. Howlett discusses possible topics for English term papers with Kim McKeown, Dennis Gooding, Doug Easterling, and David Houston.

Expand Student Interest and Knowledge

This year the English Department familiarized students with literature, writing, and speaking. In sophomore classes, students studied English literature for a semester and spent the second semester mastering the lively art of speaking.

Juniors, on general and academic curriculums, explored the evolution of American literature through the decades.

Making movies, performing plays, and writing research papers helped seniors to expand their knowledge of English.

A one-semester composition class was offered for those who wished to improve their writing skills.

Upper right—English assignments sometimes got a little complicated, as sophomore Greg Jones discovered. Here, he listens attentively as Mrs. Howlett explains the exercise just one more time.

Mrs. McCoy, during her three year stay at CHS, taught both general and academic English classes and instituted a one semester composition course. Unfortunately, at the completion of this year's first six weeks grading period, Mrs. McCoy retired due to poor health.

Basic Skills Learned in Shop Classes

Date Hampton carefully operates a circular saw for a wood project in wood shop

Ron Dickerson sets type for one of many projects in printing class.

Mike Yeoman calculates a measurement in wood shop

Industrial arts has been called the study of industry. At CHS, however, the industrial arts department puts great emphasis on teaching the student basic skills. In order to become competent in any career, students must first learn fundamentals. The industrial arts program at CHS consists of such subjects as electronics, machine shop, woodshop, and the graphic arts of printing and drafting.

In the ICT (Industrial Cooperative Training) program the student is able to apply basic skills that he has learned. He has the opportunity to work in a job area that he wishes to pursue. Athenians worked in local firms at such jobs as plumbing, radio and TV repair, meat cutting, body fender repair, shoe repair, water treatment, food service, and printing.

Home Economics Emphasize Creativity

Above—One of the consequences of Boys' Home Ec. is eating your own cooking. Allen Plunkett, Roger Booher, and Tim Ramie don't seem to object, though, as they devour Dennis Robertson's food along with their own.

Below—The girls spend their time learning to prepare more elegant foods. Paula Johnson and Bev Conway fix a fondue, very popular among students.

Home economics is not only cooking and sewing—at CHS it is more. The main emphasis is on creativity and teaching students to be better buyers and managers. Marital problems, home nursing, and nutrition are covered in the home economics curriculum.

Girls sewed and knitted clothing articles of their choice and tested new recipes throughout the year.

The CHS Home Ec. Department did not ignore the boys. The one semester class for boys covered ironing, mending, and the selection of proper clothing, as well as the preparation of well-balanced meals.

Just what Bob Peterman always wanted to do—fix shrimp for a grade.

Labs, Films, Field Trips Play an

A class moves into the hall. A property of planetary motion is being demonstrated to physics students. A student turns his head at strange noises in the hall. The chicks have arrived. A new lab will begin in biology. This is part of science in action at CHS

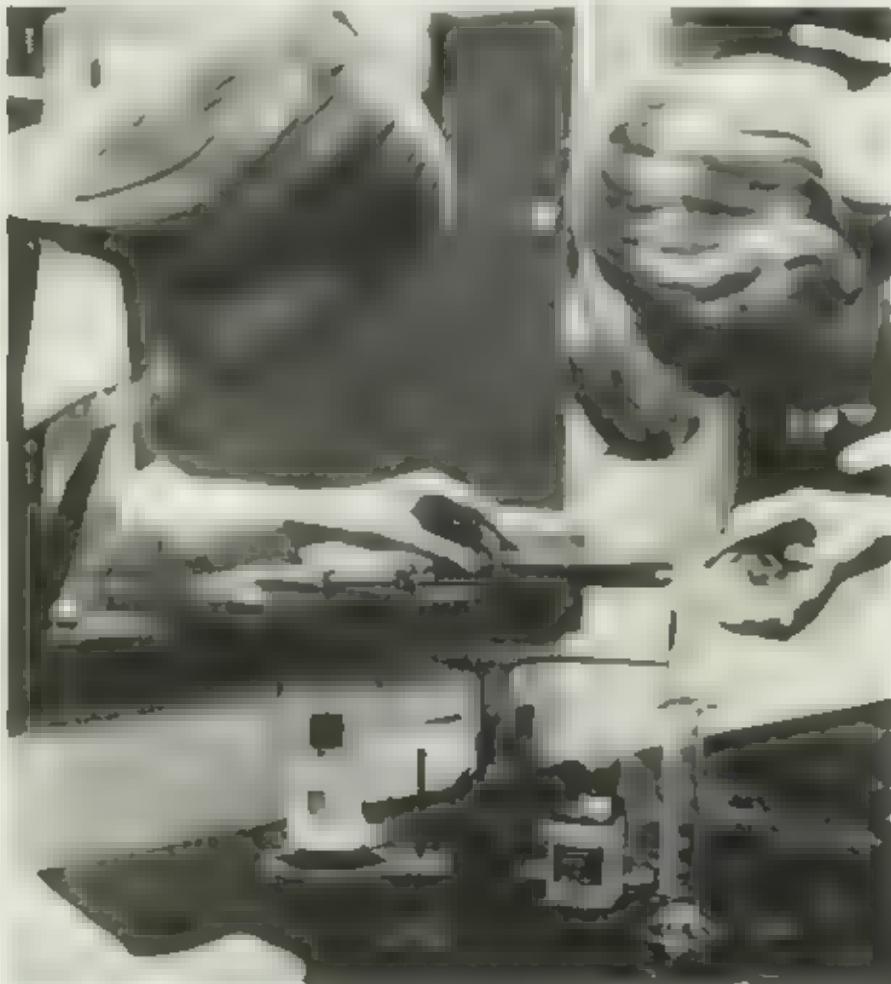

Two years of biology, and one each of physics, chemistry, science topics, and physical science were offered to students at CHS this year. The Athenian applied his knowledge in laboratory conditions in order to gain a deeper understanding of the world around him. Films added more depth to the usual textbooks. Field trips were an important part of some classes

Mr. Carl Franz joined the science department as a chemistry teacher. He also supervised science topics

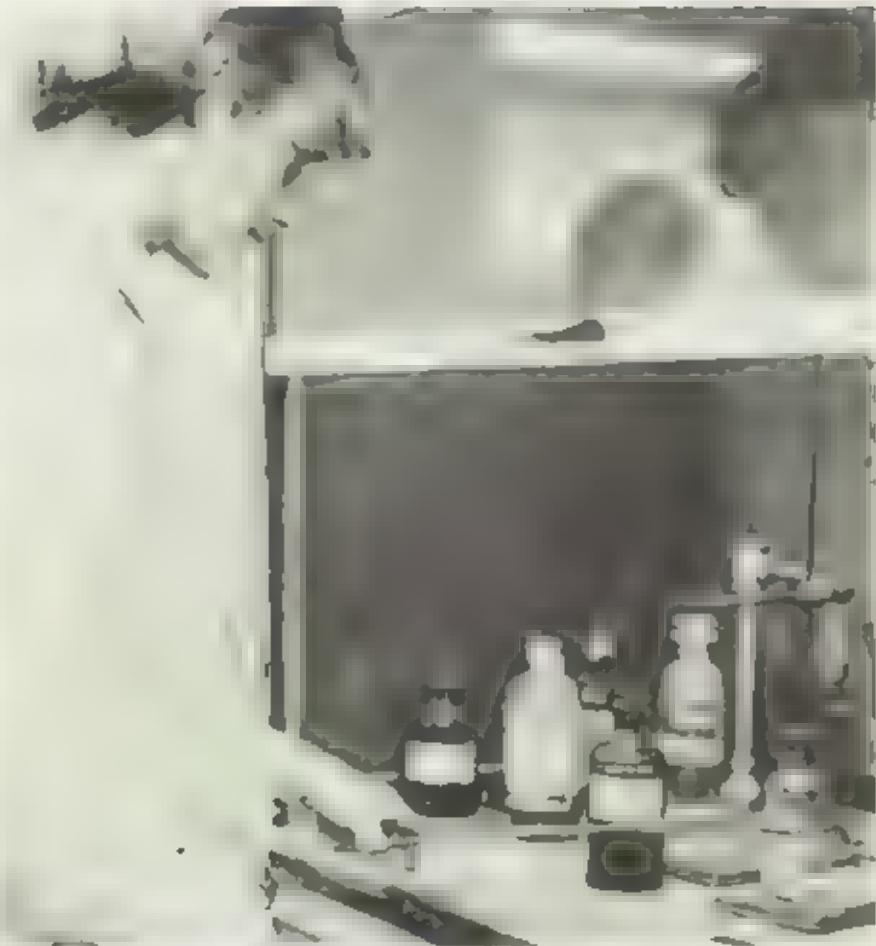

Upper—Kevin Pugh inspects the Questar telescope lent to CHS by Wabash College.

Lower—Experiments added value to normal science courses. Mike Westerfield fools around with photographic techniques

Above—Careful measurements are very important for accurate results in chemistry. Preparing for the next steps of the experiment are Jean Blackwell and Eric Lucas

Important Part in Science Classes

Upper—Robert Peacock carefully measures his materials for an experiment involving peas and respiration.

Lower—Steve Demoret goes over the list of materials he will need for his next Science Topics project

Upper—The handling of harmful chemicals is always a problem. Certain chemicals are stored in the hood. Eric Lucas carefully returns a bottle to its place under the hood

Lower—Biology class brought some surprises for Jane Runyon and Linda Franklin. They carefully inspect the fetal pig, who will be their "friend" for the next few weeks

Math Department Offers New Courses

Above—Coach Curtis doubles as geometry teacher at CHS. Students listen carefully as he reports the results of a little test of skill

This year math students had two more opportunities to clash with the subject. A two semester course in practical math introduced the student to many of the everyday uses of math. Basic arithmetic and surveying were among the topics discussed. A one semester course in computer programming was taught second semester. The class attracted a large number of interested students though admission was limited.

The National Math Contest was once again held at CHS. Students were faced with many challenging problems. High scorers received recognition for their achievement.

Sociology Classes Voice Opinions on

The honors program in government and economics was developed to assist students in their search for a better understanding of their environment and that of others. This newly instituted program allowed advanced students to study in depth the diverse systems of government and the role of economics in society.

During the first semester, sociology classes voiced opinions on topics ranging from religion to interracial dating over WNDY-FM. Second semester psychology classes acquainted students with various behavioral problems and their causes.

Students studied the growth and development of the United States and other countries in U.S. History, World History and geography classes.

The social studies lab was once again available to students who desired independent work. Students used its tapes, films, and additional reading material during their study halls and after school.

Upper—Cindy Wilhite works feverishly in the social studies lab to complete her Sociology assignment.

Languages Acquaint Students with Foreign Countries

Opening the Athenian's mind to distant lands and cultures was a part of French, Spanish, and Latin classes

French literature added depth to the study of the language. Students found that fun in French class could greatly improve their knowledge and correct usage of the language

Latin may be called a "dead" language, but students this year discovered that it "lives" in many ways. Many words were recognized as "old friends" by students who had decided to make Latin their language

Spanish students studied the history and culture of the various Spanish speaking countries. They joined in the trip to Mexico organized by the Spanish Club during summer vacation

These three aren't in the hall because they are taking a test—it's the third year French class: Sally Manker, Kit Macpherson, and their teacher, Mrs. Howlett

Spanish classes got in the Christmas spirit by constructing candy filled pinatas, which is an old Spanish custom. Here, Debbie Barton attempts to burst the pinata while Debbie Linn swings it above her head

During the first weeks of school, the third year Spanish class adopted the front steps of the school building for their classroom

Randy Allen points out an ancient Roman provinece to John Thompson in Mr. Kain's first period Latin class

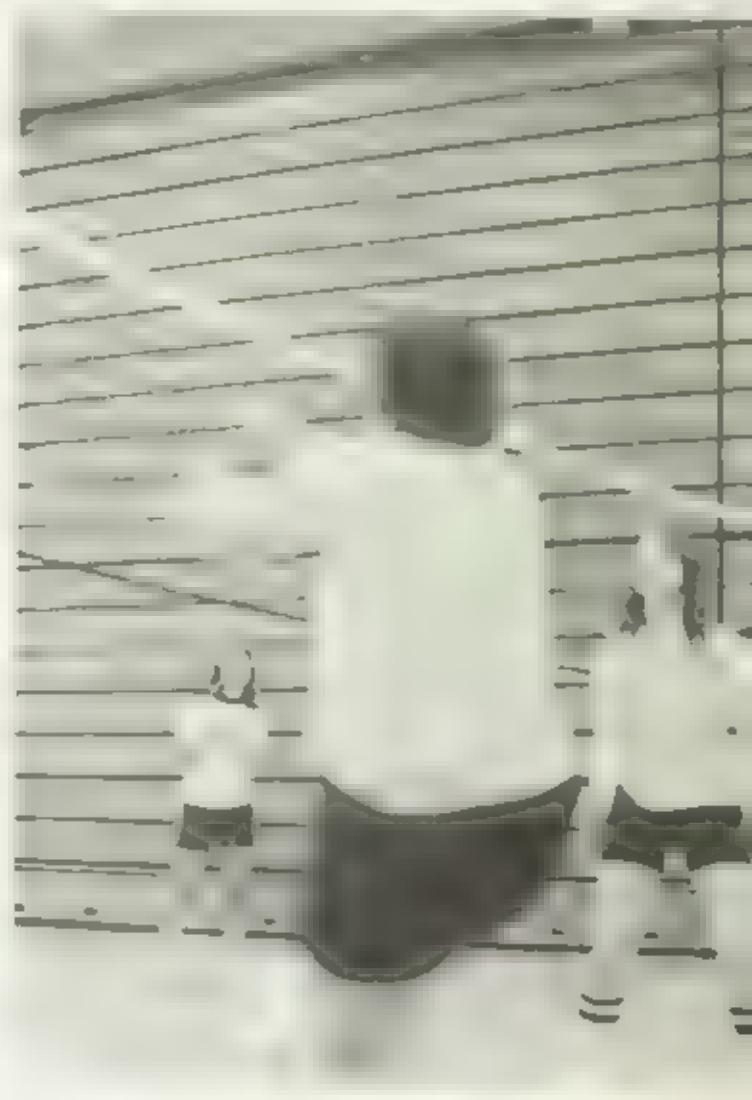

P.E., Driver Ed—Break Academic Routine

Upper—Clint Dennison and Dan McClen, as they realize they have just had a collision with their two cars in driver education.
Middle—Students wishing to further develop their bodes use the weight machine.
Lower—Sophomore gym classes play half court basketball as an appropriate sport during the months of basketball season.

Physical education was an important part of the CHS student's curriculum. Physical education not only trained the student physically, but mentally as well. Miss Bartelson, the newest addition to the department, stressed physical and mental activity by teaching modern dance. During classroom activities boys and girls learned to handle basic first aid skills. Students also discussed personal appearance and good grooming habits.

Driver education gave students the chance to perfect their driving skills. Bookwork and on the road training constituted this course. The one semester course was completed with the passing of tests and the receiving of licenses.

Linda Kingry moves into position to return a serve during a GAA volleyball game.

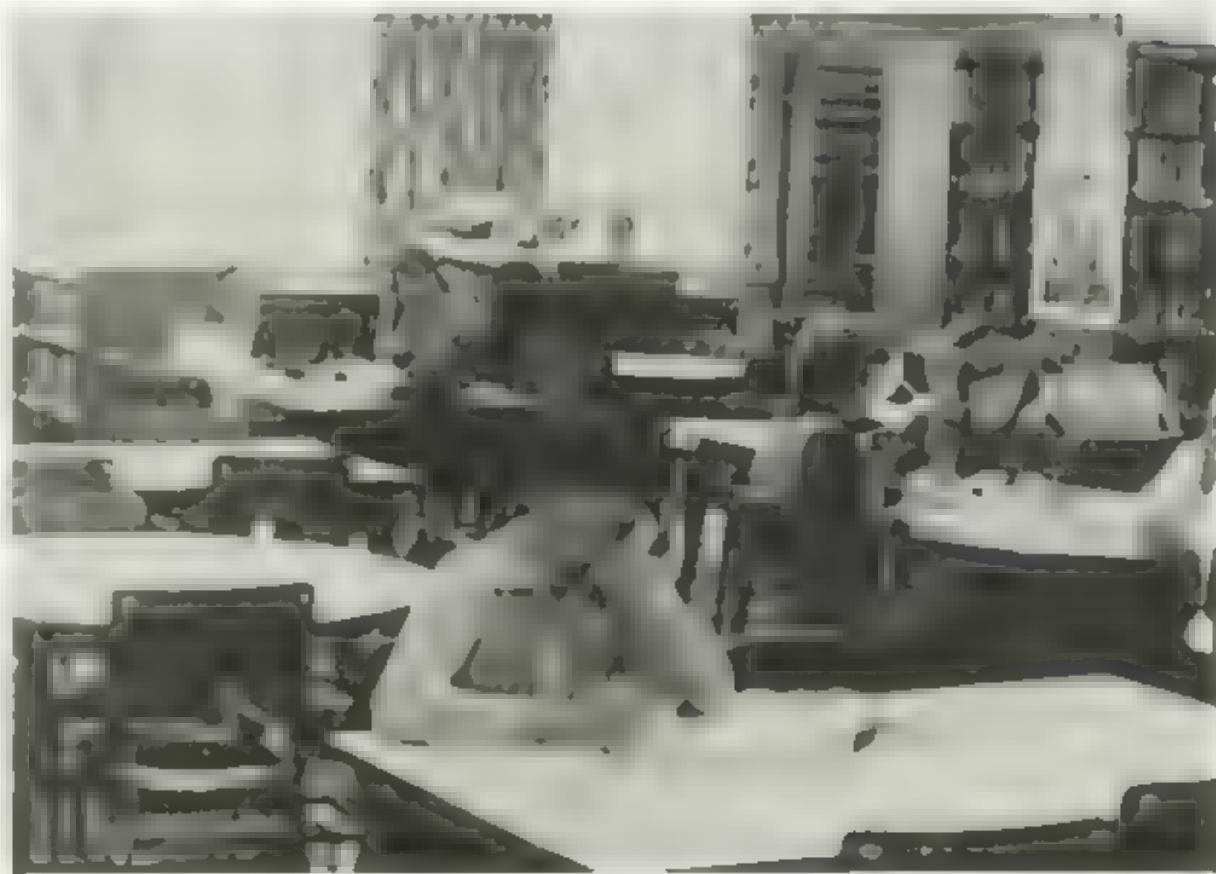

CHS Library Aids in Research

Books are only part of any good library. Along with books go magazines, newspapers, films, film strips—all of which are found in the CHS library.

The library was "rediscovered" this year when students found it to be one of the options in the new study hall program. The Athenian learned in the course of the year, how useful the library can be for studying and browsing.

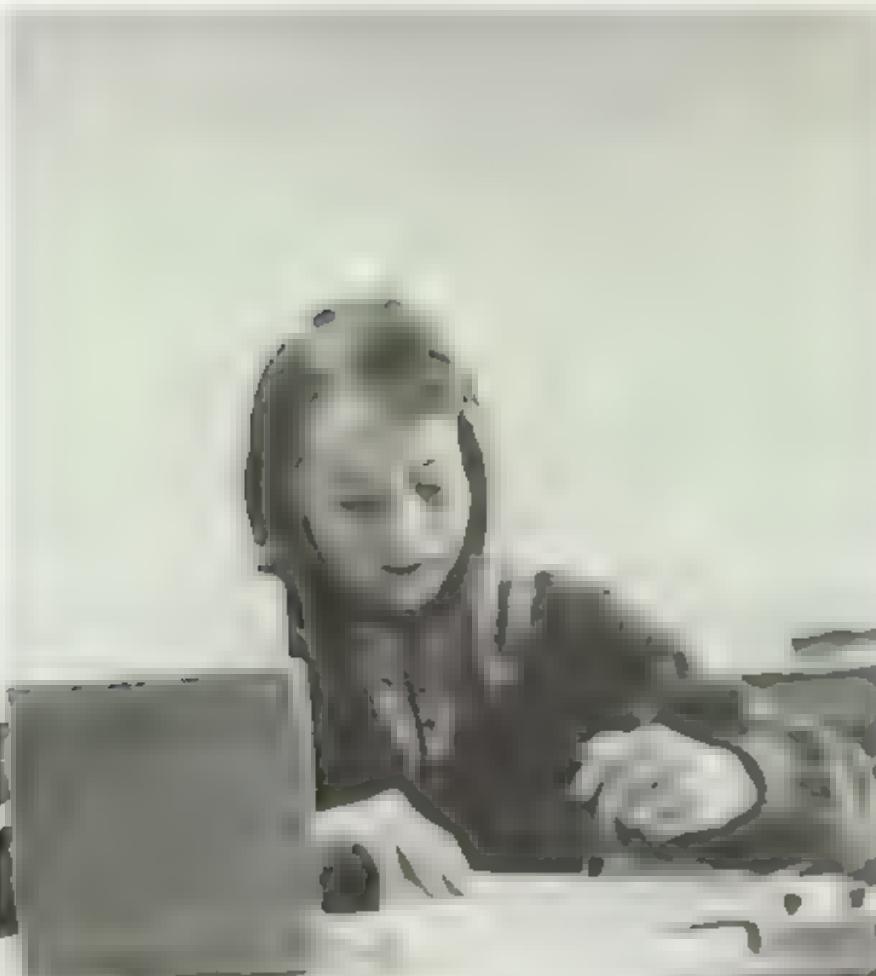

Mike Warren lets his fingers do the "walking" through the many encyclopedia volumes.

Two New Business Courses Offered

The Co-operative Office Education program was continued this year, allowing students to combine regular class studies with on-the-job training at local businesses and offices. Added to the business curriculum were two one semester courses—data processing and office machines.

Two new faces were added to the Business Department. Miss Bonita Clark directed the school play and taught shorthand, typing and general business. Miss Jeri Durr instructed students in typing and Business English.

Organizations

Council Sponsors Ping-Pong Tourney

The masterminds behind Student Council are: D. Coons, treasurer; K. MacPherson, secretary; T. Seymour, president; and S. Manker, vice-president

Working for the students by working with the administration has been the central idea behind this year's Student Council. It has proved worthwhile, as the student school relationship took a big step forward.

To start off the year, the Council planned the annual Homecoming festivities which included an afternoon parade, an evening car caravan, the crowning of the queen, and finally a bonfire following the game. Other products of this year's Council were the refurbishing of the student lounge, a ping-pong tournament, and several dances; along with the usual sponsoring of class officer elections, cheerleading elections, and several convocations throughout the year.

As one of the school's most active organizations, Student Council played an important role in making CHS a better place for all of the students.

Representing CHS on an academic front were the Athenian members of the National Forensic League. Sponsored by Mr. Nelson, the team spent many Saturdays competing for honors in tournaments throughout the state of Indiana.

Students competed in various events such as original oratory, impromptu, extemporaneous, discussion, poetic, dramatic, and humorous interpretation, and debate. This year's debate topic, which dealt with the jury system, proved to be a constant challenge.

This year, Up N Atom was divided into four main interest groups—ecology, medicine, astronomy, and photography.

During the first of the year, the ecology group went on a spelunking expedition. A pollution study of Sugar Creek was also made.

The medicine group visited veterinary, dental, and medical offices and the intensive care and X-ray wings of Culver Hospital. The group also visited the I.U.P.U.I. medical complex in Indianapolis.

The astronomy group's projects included planetarium and observatory trips, satellite tracking, and moon mapping.

The photography group learned in a series of workshops, the techniques of taking and developing pictures. Members applied what they had learned during the year by competing in the photo contest sponsored by the club.

The role of the homemaker is one that can require much preparation. Difficulties often arise which can seem invincible to someone who is unprepared. However, some girls were ready to accept the challenge, having spent their year as members of Future Homemakers of America.

The club provided CHS students with a chance to exchange ideas and methods with other girls. Theories on good housekeeping and family living were discussed. Speakers occasionally added special interest to regular meetings. The club sponsored several projects that members considered valuable.

The club set a first this year as Deb VanCleave was elected state secretary. She attended a leadership workshop at Trafalgar Indiana and national conventions in New York and Kansas City.

FTA Provides on the Job Training

Future Teachers of America offered membership to students interested in a career in the education field. Programs throughout the year dealt with many aspects of education. Members were able to learn about the problems they would encounter as teachers. The club's sponsor, Mr. Burgess, helped place many members with elementary and junior high school teachers in the cadet teaching program.

Two money-making projects financed the annual $50 scholarship given to an FTA member to aid in furthering his education. FTA members promoted American Education week and served as guides at open house.

Choir Participates in First Music Festival

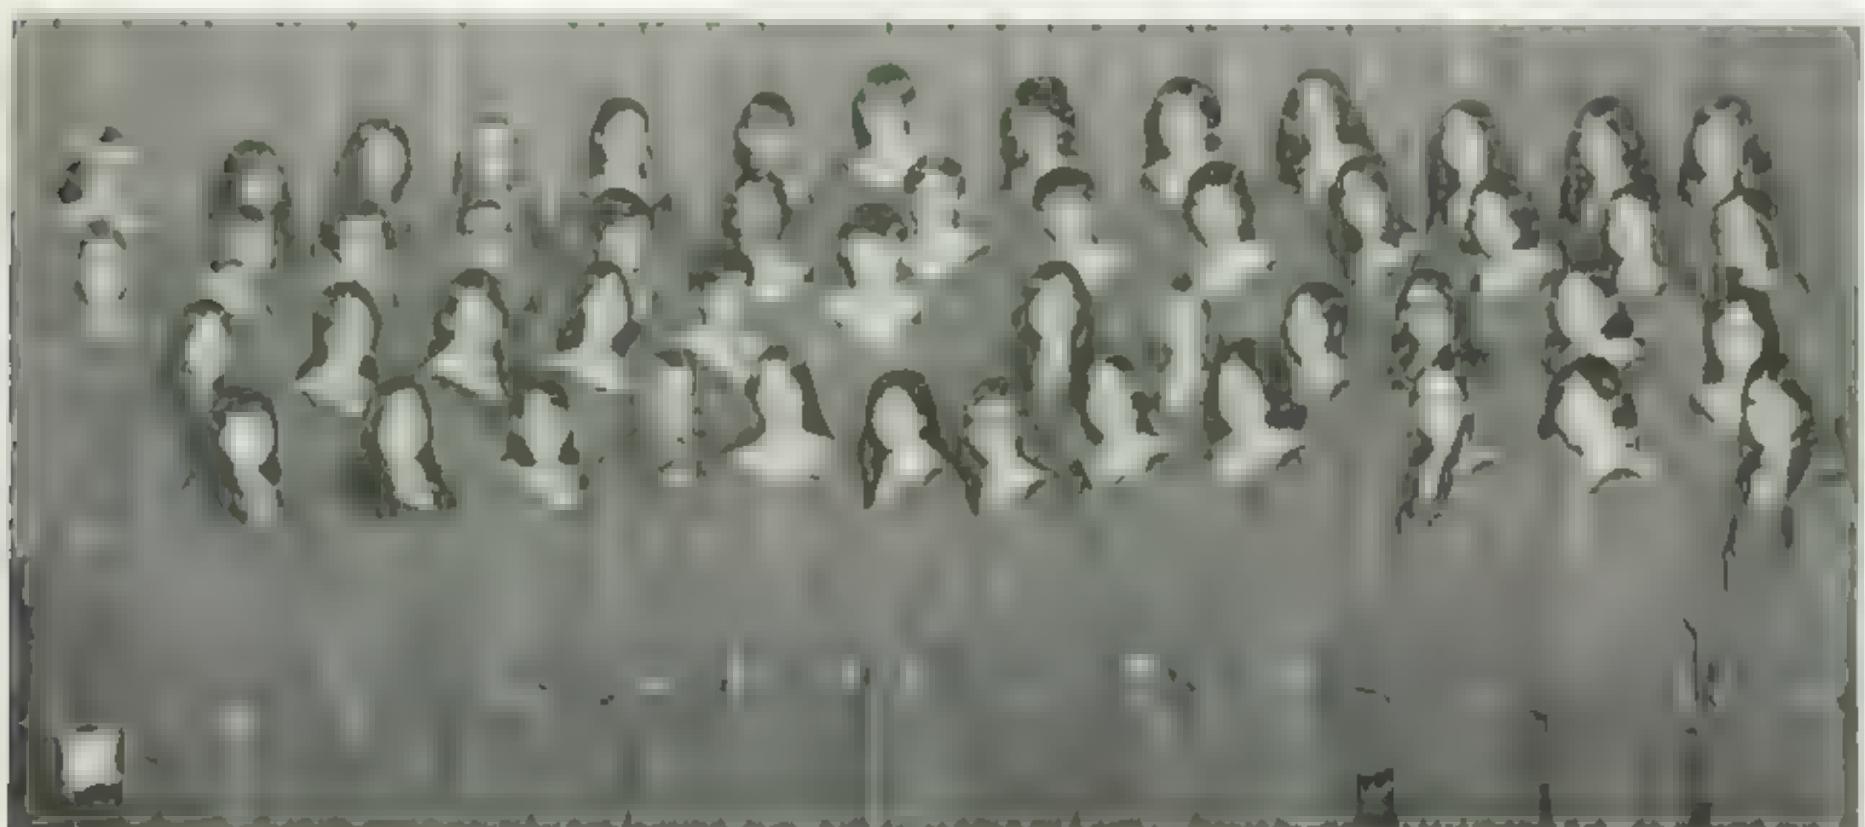

The choir, under the guidance of the new director Mr. Taylor, participated in various contests during the year. Solo and group ensembles competed in the state contest held at Greencastle, Indiana on February 5. On April 14 the concert choir combined with choirs from surrounding schools to make North Montgomery's first music festival a success.

Providing entertainment was an important function of this year's choir. In co-operation with the band, the choir presented many concerts and convocations.

Spanish Club Plans Trip to Mexico

Making Spanish fun was the main function of the Spanish Club this year. Members enjoyed themselves at parties held throughout the year. Caroling and skating filled the winter months while a Spanish dinner, with all the trimmings, was enjoyed in the spring.

The high point for club members this year was undoubtedly a trip to Mexico, planned for after the close of school. To help finance the trip, members sold various kinds of stationery.

Club Attends French Play at Purdue

Le Cercle Francais members enjoyed a wide variety of activities during the year. Programs were planned to help further the knowledge of members in the French language and customs.

Club activities included a trip to Purdue University to see the French play, "Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme," and an "Old French Christmas Party."

At the end of the school year, the club once again held its annual French banquet. The banquet helped round out a year that was both educational and fun.

O.E.A. Tours Chicago Business Offices

The purpose of O.E.A. is to prepare for lives of service in office occupations. O.E.A. means "Opportunities in Education through Action."

The Crawfordsville O.E.A. held the District Conference here in October. Seven clubs were represented. They were Southmont, North Montgomery, Crawfordsville, Clinton, Lafayette, Jefferson and two sections from Benton Central. It was a workshop for officers with each school participating. Regional contests were held in February in which there was competition in eight occupational areas.

The club had a bake sale and sold cookbooks to raise money. O.E.A. members went on a field trip to Chicago and toured some businesses and offices.

HHC Holds Pre-Holiday Jewelry Sale

Students interested in studying opportunities available in the health field found Health Careers Club a great aid. Members considered the roles of doctors, nurses, and technicians for possible careers

The HCC meetings often included guest speakers on many health topics. Discussions among members and field trips added much to the member's knowledge and helped him decide on the right career.

As a money making project, the club sold assorted types of jewelry. The pre Christmas sale was a great success

Assistants Perform Needed Work

Office Assistants - B. Rusk, S. DeKraan, C. Morris, E. Edmisten (seated) C. Thompson

Helping to keep the school running smoothly were five groups of involved students. They worked in the library, nurse's office, guidance office, administrative office and as AV assistants.

Students and teachers depended on the library assistants to find the book or magazine issue needed. Checking out books was another of their duties.

If the day's lesson called for a film, the teacher had someone to rely on. Angry machines were soon tamed by AV assistants.

The people who spent a lot of time in the halls were the student assistants in the various offices at CHS. By doing small jobs they freed the faculty to do more important work.

Tri-M Honors Superior Music Students

D. Barker and L. Henry apply basic principles in the new music theory class which is part of the expanding music curriculum.

Tri-M (Modern Music Masters) is a national organization that honors superior music students. The organization, sponsored by Mr. Ruby and Mr. Taylor, encouraged students to be involved and interested in music. Scholastic ability, service, character, and participation in music contests formed a basis for membership in the organization.

Tri-M, being an honorary club, had no money-making projects and few activities. It did, however, serve the important task of uniting students from different areas of music. Enthusiasm for varying subjects combined to promote music of all types at CHS.

Through membership in Foreign Fellowship, students became acquainted with a variety of foreign cultures. Guest speakers at club meetings proved to be both educational and interesting. With the aid of films and slides, members obtained a glimpse of many countries and their inhabitants.

FFC worked closely with the foreign exchange students in helping them to adjust to their new homes and new school. One of the club's first projects was an honorary dinner of welcome for the exchange students. In turn, at a regular meeting after school, the two exchange students spoke about the differences and similarities between their countries and the U.S.

This year's CHS band took on a new face with a few changes. The band had two new drum majors—one of whom was a girl. With the consolidation of the county schools there was an increase of school spirit, especially in the band. During games and pep sessions the band members joined with the pep blocks and the cheerleaders in performing many chants and yells.

Cheering wasn't the only thing the band did. Long hours were spent practicing in preparation for solo and ensemble contests in hopes of bringing home some first place medals. Members received credit for attending the ballgames and concerts. For the first time in the history of CHS, the band participated in the Montgomery County Band Festival held in April. The band performed in the festival along with 300 band members from all over the county.

Teachers Elect Honor Students to NHS

The symbol of the flaming torch represents the organization composed of the outstanding students at CHS. Each year, National Honor Society inducts five per cent of the junior class and fifteen per cent of the senior class. Students must have maintained at least a "B" average to be eligible for membership in the organization. Teachers and members of NHS look for scholarship, character, service, and leadership as prerequisites for electing students into National Honor Society.

At the end of the year, NHS once again purchased gold and silver honor cords for those seniors who had maintained at least a three point grade average or better during their high school careers.

Cheerleaders Spark School Spirit

Eight enthusiastic cheerleaders led the Athenians through another successful football and basketball season. With the aid of the boys' and girls' pep blocks, the cheerleaders provided a variety of skits at pep sessions.

The varsity cheerleaders attended a cheerleading camp at Vincennes, Indiana for one week during the summer. At camp the cheerleaders received the spirit stick for being one of the most spirited groups there. That same enthusiasm helped to boost the Athenian spirit and pride all during the year.

Boys' and Girls' Pep Blocks Provide

Pep Block members accelerated the competitive spirit at the football and basketball games with a variety of chants and yells. The combination of the boys' and girls' pep blocks increased the vivaciousness at the games.

The selling of ballpoint pens and miracle brushes proved very profitable for the girls' block.

Both blocks provided enjoyable skits at pep sessions during the year.

The 1972 Athenian staff worked in a constant state of pandemonium during the year. Missing deadlines, frantically cropping pictures, forming headlines, and madcap typing were typical during sixth period.

This year was a year of innovation for the Athenian. Enlargement of senior pictures, and several colored pictures were some of the changes in the '72 Athenian yearbook.

The staff was led by co-editors Brad Ross and Barbie Hahn. The editors spent two weeks at I.U. during the summer at the High School Yearbook Institute.

Harriers Finish 11-0 For Best Season Ever

This year the Athenian harriers finished the season with a perfect 11-0 record, making them first in the conference. The harriers were also first in the Western Invitational, second in the Frankfort Inv., second in the Pike Hokum Karum, second in the sectional and sixth in the regional.

Dirk Berard was the team's number one runner, setting a new course and school record of 9:35. He finished first in the sectional, second in the regional, and third in the state. Berard's amazing ability and experience should prove helpful next year—when he wins the state.

Pandemonium breaks loose on the football field after the Athenians came from behind to defeat Lafayette Jeff

Head coach Glenn Knecht led the Athenian football team to a successful season with a 7-3 record. The team started the season off in perfect form by defeating Lafayette Jeff and Central Catholic. However, the hope for an undefeated season was shattered when the Athenians lost to Westside 7-6.

At the Homecoming game, the Athenians were defeated by the Noblesville Millers 0-34. Even though this was a big letdown, the Athenians bounded back to win the next four out of five games.

During practice Coach Knecht goes over some of the plays that the team will be using

The season started off slowly for the Athenians as they lost their first two games to Lebanon and North Montgomery. The team finally got going and won the next four games in a row, over Greencastle, Williamsport, Central Catholic and West Lafayette before being overcome by the then sixth-ranked Terre Haute North.

The varsity squad this year was a young team consisting of four seniors, five juniors, and two sophomores, making next year's outlook quite good.

Dennis Hammons prepares himself for the referee's signal to begin wrestling at the start of the second period

For the first time in Athenian history, the CHS grapplers brought home the Sagamore Conference wrestling trophy. In accomplishing this feat the grapplers amassed a total of 101 points, 33 more points than second place Noblesville. The Athenians placed five champions, one second, and six third places.

Coach Don Avery's wrestlers finished their season with a 9-3 record. The team registered shut outs against Frankfort and Green castle, and allowed Owen Valley and Harrison only three points each.

Those earning their varsity positions for the third year were M. Thompson, J. Earl, R. Patterson, R. Hocking and D. Cox.

The new coach of the CHS golf team, Paul Curtis, led his links men to an excellent season with a 15-3 record. The team also did well in tournaments, placing third in the conference tourney and third in the sectional, being beaten by Brebeuf in a play-off for second place and a chance to go to the regional.

The team's number one man was senior Mark Haberstroh, with an average of 78.47 per meet. The varsity's other four positions were filled by Jerry Rule, Terry Kendricks, Dave Stephens and Dave Crabtree.

The award winners were: Mark Haberstroh, the MVP, and Jerry Rule, the Booster Mental Attitude Award.

After the season opener it looked as though it was going to be a long season for Coach Larry Motz. The team lost both games in a double header with Lafayette Jeff. After one more loss the Athenians came back to win the next five games.

In conference play the team won the first game against Carmel 5-3. In their second game the Athenians were defeated by Frankfort 6-5.

In the sectional the Athenians defeated both Linden and Coal Creek, thus winning the sectional title for CHS. The Athenians then went to the regional to take on Seeger. Seeger finished the game on top with a score of five to the Athenians' four.

With the sectional title under their belts the team completed the season with a 9-7 record.

Coaches Knecht and Fiedler could not have been happier with the 1971 CHS track team as it finished the season with an undefeated 7-0 record. The team placed first in the Big Five meet, Attica Relays, Frankfort Invitational, and the Sagamore Conference. The team also had a state champion in the high jump event Phil Churchill

There were four new school records set. P. Churchill set records in the high jump and pole vault, D. Berard in the mile, and M. Harpest, D. Caster, B. Keim, and C. Priebe in the 550 yard relay

The talents of all three classes combined to make this year's play, "Up the Down Staircase," a success. Under the direction of Miss Bonita Clark, the students worked for six weeks to make the characters of the play come alive.

Students rated the play as one of the best that had been given at CHS. They named accurate typecasting and good acting as the main reasons for its success. The story of a beginning teacher in an inner city school was one the students could easily identify with. The fast paced "Laugh In" style was full of humor and humanity. It was an enjoyable experience for all.

Two Dark Horse Party Candidates

Below—Rick Hocking, president, and Dave Caster, vice-president, supervise while Sarah Houston, secretary, and Regina Helms, treasurer, do some serious raking. A leaf rake was one of the first senior class projects organized by the officers in October.

From the first day to the last, the class of '72 filled its final year with as much fun as possible.

Confusion was the theme of senior elections. Last minute rule changes allowed a third party to form. The uncertain seniors finally caught the drift of the campaigns and made their choices at the polls, giving the "Dark Horse" party the two top positions. The officers and a quickly elected senior council put promises into action as a leaf rake and dance were organized.

The confusion of the first days was matched as seniors prepared for graduation. On that day the class of '72 bid goodbye to CHS and faced the mysterious future.

Juniors Place Second in Homecoming

The second year at CHS is one step closer to the goals of the class of '73. This is the year when many important decisions are made about careers and colleges. But the juniors found the year to be a welcome break between the trying sophomore and senior years.

Juniors showed class unity as they worked together in the building of their float, which received second place. The juniors ran the concession stand this year for a money-making project. At half times coke flew all over and popcorn covered the ground but always juniors had things under control.

After this year is long gone, the class of '73 will have many happy memories of their junior year at CHS.

Sandy Grust strikes the class secretary pose on President Cliff Tucker's knee while fellow officers Randy Ragsdale, vice-president, and Dan Stenger, treasurer, look on.

We, the members of the 1972 Athenian staff, could never have completed the work necessary for this yearbook without the help, patience, and tolerance of others. Thanks are due to Mr. Gil Hutton of Photo Art Studio for his many pictures. Mr. Dick Kennard is assured of our appreciation for his helpful hints, his understanding of the dilemma of financing and editing a yearbook, and his work in turning a chaotic dream into reality. We also wish to thank the faculty of CHS for tolerating the strange interviews and the random wanderings of staff members. Special thanks are directed to Mr. Franz and Mr. Thompson for the use of the "darkroom" and the photography equipment, and to Joe Boswell for his photographs. And finally, and most humbly, we express our gratitude to Mrs. Servies for tolerating the moody and prodding the lazy, and for living through missed deadlines and lost copy. We wish to give this advice from her to future staff members:

"DON'T SIT ON THE RADIATOR!!!!!!"

planted in the mind when young will mature into a multifoliate flower of thought seeds have been planted here and the flowers of these seeds will be the new wonders of the world it is in the age of our youth that we learn to think and wonder seeds are planted yet often the sprouts wither and die but a good planter will nurture the seed
with knowledge with enthusiasm with concern with care toward the future for the mind that carries the seed is the future
the seed has been planted in some the plant of the seed will wither
through lack of care
by the planter or lack of soil in others
the seed will grow to the full glory full color of the multifoliate flower of thought seeds have been planted here in the mind of the athenian
